"Overall, this training was amazing and really well laid out. I learned a lot!
Definitely needed at least once a year" - Learner

About Evaluation Bootcamp:

This training is designed to highlight best practices for conducting high-quality evaluations. It is intended for VA employees looking to develop or expand on their evaluation skills to assess a current program or project, such as VA's Health Services Research and Development Service (HSR&D) fellows, trainees, early career persons, QUERI Advancing Diversity in Implementation Leadership (ADIL) awardees, program leads, analysts and contractors or VA investigators.

Attendees will learn the skills to support the development, planning, and implementation of rigorous evaluations to successfully move to the next evaluation step in their project. Specifically, they will build the skills required to successfully execute a program evaluation program, understand contextual factors and expectations for conducting program evaluation in VA, and develop foundational knowledge of program evaluation elements and goals.
